The general belief of commentators is that this Psalm refers to the deliverance of Judah from the hand of Sennecharib the Assyrian, by the miraculous destruction of the army of that powerful and boastful heathen king. Though the exhortation of the text may have here a limited import, the limit arises not so much from its nature as the circumstances in which it is given. In its own character it is general. In either joyful or sorrowful events, prosperous or adverse circumstances, the voice of the Lord may be heard, ever saying, Be still, and know that I am God. Both in joy and sorrow men are apt to forget their Maker, and as a consequence to give expression...
