Frisk barn manger waiting frisked grain missed hiding Do I look like the little squirrel whose home is in the trees? I am a very interesting little creature. My color is brownish gray. Some people call me the striped squirrel. That is because there are five black stripes and two pale yellow ones on my back and sides. These stripes extend from my neck to my tail. My neck and breast are white. Surely I cannot be taken for any other animal. Don t you think you would know me if you should meet me ( Other people call me the chipping squirrel, or chipmunk. My chipping cry, which is like the chirping of a young chicken, gives me that name. But I am a little squirrel, burrowing in the ground. I have a long, bushy tail, which curves over my back. My teeth are like my cousin s teeth. The nails on my toes are made to dig the ground, and not to climb trees. My cousin has no pockets or pouches in his cheeks in which to store his food. He cannot carry so much food at once to his storehouse as I can. I can carry three or four hickory nuts at once. When the nuts and seeds are ripe, I go out every day and fill my pockets, which are back of my teeth. I crowd seeds and nuts into these pockets, using my forepaws...
