Brand New Book  Print on Demand .One of the most depressing and languid of all objects is the aspect of an Italian city in the full noon of a hot summer s day. The massive buildings, fortress-like and stern, which show no touch of life and habitation; the glaring streets, un-traversed by a single passer; the wide piazza, staring vacantly in the broiling sun; the shop doors closed, all evidencing the season of the siesta, seem all waiting for the hour when long shadows shall fall over the scorched pavement, and some air-faint though it be-of coming night recall the population to a semblance of active existence. With the air of a heated wayfarer, throwing open his coat to refresh himself, the city, at last, flings wide jalouse and shutter, and the half-baked inhabitant strolls forth to taste the bel fresco. It is the season when nationalities are seen undisturbed by the presence of strangers. No travellers are now to be met with; the heavy rumbling of the travelling-carriage no longer thunders over the massive causeway; no postilion s whip awakes the echoes of the Piazza; no landlord s bell summons the eager household to the deep-arched doorway. It is the People alone are abroad, -that gentle Italian people, quiet-looking, inoffensive as they are. A sort of languid grace, a kind of dignified melancholy, pervades their demeanor, not at all unpleasing; and if the stranger come fresh from the west of Europe, with its busy turmoil and zeal of money-getting, he cannot but experience a sense of calm and relief in the aspect of this easily satisfied and simple population. As the gloom of evening thickens the scene assumes more of life and movement....
