James H. Blount Mr. Moorfield Storey called the meeting to order. Mr. Moorfield Storey s Remarks Ladies and Gentleman of the Anti-Imperialist League: It is very pleasant to meet you here in such goodly numbers as we begin a new annual campaign of active agitation in favor of Filipino independence. On this occasion we are here to provide ourselves with fresh ammunition. From your experience with me you know that on most occasions I am not averse to speaking, but on this occasion, I am here to listen. I believe that there are two serious vices into which a presiding officer may readily fall. One is to introduce the speaker of the evening in a speech of such length as more or less to take away the freshness, of the speakers ammunition and the other is to talk about it from an entirely erroneous standpoint, so that the speaker is obliged to spend...
